Based on your reading of the texts on page three:

- Explain in your own words why the game Factitious was developed
- Give reasons why, in your view, the game is or is not useful to young people today.

(Question 1, 2018)

Factitious was developed to help students learn a valuable life skill- the ability to decipher between real and fake news. The game was also developed to promote creativity in journalism through technology.

I believe Factitious is useful to young people today. From the aforementioned, we know that it teaches students an important life skill. This can be used by students in many situations, as they know which websites are trustworthy, not to believe everything they hear, and develop the skill of knowing them on whether the media is lying to us or not. Factitious also keeps students up to date on news and interesting facts. This is key knowledge to have in day to day life.
